

Jurica Maltar

Odjel za matematiku, Sveučilište J. J. Strossmayera u Osijeku

20. listopada 2021.

Visual place recognition: algorithms and image representation optimization

Two main concerns in the problem of visual place recognition are: how to represent a place and how to match it. By using graph theory, we can construct a powerful place matching algorithm. By using optimization techniques, we can adapt a place representation. Therefore, this seminar examines numerous optimization problems and how they are incorporated in the context of visual place recognition.